

JobKeeper Payment: Changes to the Fair Work Act

The Government has amended the Fair Work Act to enable employers who qualify for, and are entitled to, the JobKeeper Payment to temporarily vary work arrangements for eligible employees in order to keep people employed.

On 21 July 2020, the Government announced that the JobKeeper Payment would be extended until 28 March 2021 with some changes to the eligibility criteria and payment amounts. Further changes were announced on 7 August 2020. Information about the extension is available in the 'Extension of the JobKeeper Payment' fact sheet on the Treasury website. Further information about the JobKeeper Payment is also available at: <https://www.ato.gov.au/general/JobKeeper-Payment/>.

OVERVIEW

The Government has amended the Fair Work Act to enable employers who are entitled to receive the JobKeeper payment to temporarily vary working arrangements for eligible employees in order to keep people employed. The amendments to the Fair Work Act will only apply to national system employers who receive JobKeeper payments and can only be used for employees to whom those payments relate. There are strong protections for employees from employer misuse of these provisions. These amendments cease entirely on 28 September 2020.

VARIATION TO WORK ARRANGEMENTS

JobKeeper Enabling Directions

Jobkeeper Enabling Stand Down Direction

If an employee cannot be usefully employed for their normal days or hours because of changes to business attributable to Coronavirus (and associated government initiatives), an employer may make a JobKeeper Enabling Stand Down Direction (Stand Down JED) which directs an employee to:

- not work on particular days they would ordinarily work; or
- work for a lesser period than they would ordinarily work on particular days; or
- work a reduced number of hours (including nil hours).

Employees do not have to comply with a Stand Down JED if it is unreasonable in all the circumstances.

Employees subject to a Stand Down JED may ask to engage in reasonable secondary employment, training or professional development. Employers must consider and must not unreasonably refuse these requests.

Other Jobkeeper Enabling Direction

If an employer reasonably believes it is necessary to continue the employment of one or more employees, the employer can also give a JobKeeper Enabling Direction (JED) which directs an employee to:

- perform any duties within their skill and competency (provided that the duties are safe, reasonably within the scope of the employer's business operations and the employee is competent and licenced to perform those duties); or
- work somewhere other than their usual place of work (including their home) (provided that the location is suitable for the employee's duties, does not require the employee to travel an unreasonable distance and performance of the employees' duties at the place is both safe and reasonably within the scope of the employer's business operations).

Employees do not have to comply with either of these types of JED if it is unreasonable in all the circumstances.

Obligations on Employers

An employer must:

- not misuse a JED;
- consult employees at least 3 days' prior to the JED being given (unless a shorter period is genuinely agreed to by the employees); and
- provide the JED in writing.

Timing and Effect on Service

An authorised JED will remain in effect until revoked or replaced by the employer, or until the provisions cease completely on 28 September 2020.

A period to which a JED applies counts as service for all purposes, including where a Stand Down JED has reduced an employee's hours to zero.

Agreements to vary days of work and annual leave

Employers receiving the JobKeeper Payment can also request that an eligible employee:

- work on different days and times to their ordinary days or hours of work (provided performance of the employees' duties on those days or at those times is safe and reasonably within the scope of the employer's business operations); or
- take annual leave at full pay (provided the employee will have at least 2 weeks of annual leave remaining).

An employee must consider such requests from their employer, and must not unreasonably refuse the request. This means that an employee cannot be forced to take annual leave or work on different days or at different times.

Employers and employees may also agree to the employee taking annual leave at half pay for twice the time.

Rates of pay

Employers receiving the JobKeeper Payment must ensure that employees receive at least that amount per fortnight (before tax). An employee's hourly rate of pay cannot be reduced by a JED. If an employee has been given a JED changing their duties of work, and the new duties would ordinarily attract a higher rate of pay, the employee must be paid that higher rate of pay. Employees must also continue to be paid any applicable penalty rate or other allowance that applies to the hours they work.

If an employee worked enough so that they are entitled to more than the JobKeeper Payment per fortnight (before tax), including any applicable penalty rates, allowances, loadings or leave payments, the employer must pay them the full amount.

DISPUTES

An employee, an employer, an employee organisation or an employer organisation can make an application to the Fair Work Commission (FWC) in relation to a dispute about these new provisions. The FWC may mediate, conciliate or arbitrate the dispute, and can make any order it considers appropriate, including upholding, setting aside, or varying a JED, or making any other order it considers appropriate.

EMPLOYEE PROTECTIONS

The temporary changes to the Fair Work Act do not remove or diminish existing protections under the Fair Work Act from unfair dismissal or discrimination, and maintains the full operation of the general protections and employees' right to be represented by a union in the workplace.

While a JED or agreement under the new provisions can temporarily override an award, enterprise agreement or contract of employment, it is limited to the content of the JED or agreement, and all other requirements under awards, agreements or contracts continue to apply unaffected. When a JED or agreement ceases, the employee's terms of employment revert back to being entirely set by the relevant award, agreement or contract in the same way it was before the JED was given or agreement made.

PENALTIES

Serious penalties of up to 600 penalty units for an individual ($126,000) and 3,000 for a body corporate ($630,000) will apply to employers who seek to misuse the temporary amendments to the Fair Work Act. Serious penalties of up to the same amount can also apply to employers who:

- fail to pass on the JobKeeper payment to an employee who is entitled to the payment; or
- fail to pay an employee whatever the employee is entitled to receive for work actually performed; or
- request an employee spend or pay a portion of their JobKeeper payment in an unreasonable way (such as giving the payment, or a portion of it, to the employer).

The Minister also has the power to exclude employers from using the provisions – meaning that employers found to be misusing the system could be prevented from making any JEDs.
